“Navigating The Terrain of Change (without losing our way or sanity!)”

Presented by Alonzo Kelly, PhD

An intentional focus on communication and critical thinking will assist with navigating crucial conversations with one another and those we serve. Civil discourse does not require a lack of civility in the process. This full participatory discussion is designed to introduce communication skills when those around us may be slow or resistant to change. We should not lose sight, nor our sanity, in situations where others may not be interested or willing to evolve their thinking or attitude with an ever evolving community and world.

“We Are The Arc of Illinois”

Presented by Samantha Alloway

A presentation on the urgent need for family voices to lead system change in Illinois. It explores how lived experiences drive policy improvements and why the time for change is now.

“Better Together: A Community as a Catalyst for Social Change”

Presented by Emily Holl, MFA, MSW

The landscape of services and supports for people with Intellectual and Developmental Disabilities (I/DD) and their families has evolved over the past 75 years, thanks largely to the advocacy of people with disabilities and their families. As the service system has grown, so has the community of people working tirelessly to shape it to meet the needs of people with disabilities and their loved ones. Self-advocates, parents, and siblings have joined together to share stories, lend support, celebrate victories, and demonstrate that no one is on this journey alone. While today the need for advocacy is as strong as ever, so are our communities of advocates. This presentation will tell a story that begins in Illinois in 2006 about finding a community of sibling advocates who became lifelong friends and sparked a career path to create sibling support around the world.
